1. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because the phrase "a wettable" is unclear in line 10. Is it being referred to a wettable layer? Correction is required.

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

In paragraph [0021], line 18, paragraph [0022], line 6, the phrase "an alloy of metals" is unclear as to what metals is it being referred to.

Appropriate correction is required.

3. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: The adhesion layer includes one selected from the group consisting of titanium, tungsten, titanium-tungsten alloy and chromium in claim 16. The nickel-vanadium layer includes a sputtering nickel-vanadium layer in claims 17 and 19. The wettable layer includes one selected from the group consisting of nickel, iron and cobalt in claim 18.

4. Applicant is advised that should claim 17 be found allowable, claim 19 will be objected to under 37 CFR 1.75 as being a substantial duplicate thereof. When two claims in an application are duplicates or else are so close in content that they both cover the same thing, despite a slight difference in wording, it is proper after allowing one claim to object to the other as being a substantial duplicate of the allowed claim. See MPEP § 706.03(k).

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 2811

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 15-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Huang

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application.

Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

In regards to claim 15, Huang shows all the elements of the claimed invention in fig.

7. It is an under-ball-metallurgy layer [340] between a bonding pad [320] on a chip [310] and a solder bump [350], wherein material of the solder bump includes tin (Sn), the under-ball-metallurgy layer [340] at least comprising: an adhesion layer [340a] over the bonding pad [320]; a wettable layer [340b] over the adhesion layer [340a]; and a nickel-vanadium layer [340c] over the wettable layer [340b].

In regards to claim 16, Huang further discloses the adhesion layer [340a] includes titanium.

In regards to claims 17 and 19, Huang further discloses the nickel-vanadium layer includes a sputtering nickel-vanadium layer.

In regards to claim 18, Huang further discloses the wettable layer [340b] includes copper.

In regards to claim 20, Huang further discloses a second wettable layer [340d] made of copper over the nickel-vanadium layer [340c].

7. Claims 1-14 are allowed.

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The major difference in the claims not found in the prior art of record is a barrier layer over the wettable layer that is over a nickel-vanadium layer.
